FemmePharma, Inc. Announces New Appointment and Promotions

August 25, 2003

WAYNE, Pa.... FemmePharma, Inc., a pharmaceutical company dedicated to treating disorders disproportionately affecting women, is pleased to announce the hiring of Jessica A. Donahue as Director, Clinical Operations for the company.

Ms. Donahue brings a wealth of experience to the FemmePharma team. She has over eight years of experience in clinical research, with expertise in project management, design of investigational plans and implantation and management of clinical studies. She has worked with Advanced Clinical Epidemiological Research, Inc. and Quintiles, Inc., advancing to positions of increasing responsibility and authority in both instances. Most recently Ms. Donahue worked as an independent consultant. As Director, Clinical Operations, she will lead FemmePharma's clinical development from protocol coordination and development through study completion.

Ms. Donahue holds a B.S. from Dickinson College and an M.P.H. from Johns Hopkins University School of Hygiene and Public Health.

FemmePharma is also happy to announce the promotion of two members of its management team.

Peter K. Mays, Ph. D. was promoted to Vice President, Pharmaceutical Development. Dr. Mays has been with the organization for the past year and has led the Phase II pharmaceutical development for FemmePharma's endometriosis product. He has also led the upcoming urinary incontinence and fibrocystic breast disease products through pre-clinical development.

Kim Groff has been promoted to Assistant Vice President, Corporate Communications/Investor Relations. Ms. Groff has led the public relations strategy of the organization, as well as its fund raising efforts. She has been with the organization since 2000.

"The combined skills of these dynamic members of our management team will play an integral role in supporting FemmePharma's efforts as we move forward with our product development and product launch plans," emphasized Gerianne Tringali-DiPiano, president of FemmePharma.
